

Pierre Grey's Lakes Provincial Park is located in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains 120km north of Hinton, just off Hwy. 40. The park contains a beautiful chain of five lakes. Two of them are stocked with rainbow trout. One is stocked with brook trout. The park is named for Pierre Gris (Grey), a Métis who ran a successful trading post in the 1880s and '90s. In winter, Pierre traded with trappers and hunters bringing furs from eastern slopes of the Rockies. When spring came, he travelled to Lac Ste. Anne and Edmonton to sell furs and purchase supplies. Pierre and his wife Anne died during the 1918 flu epidemic. The remains of their trading post are still visible along the lakeshore.
