

FISH CREEK PROVINCIAL PARK

Sharing the Park Boundary

PARK NOTES

Fish Creek Provincial Park is surrounded by approximately six thousand houses. Park staff are asking for your support in maintaining the Park in its natural state. What does this mean for home owners? There are a number of things good neighbours can do, and the following is a partial list:

- Please dispose of your grass and tree clippings in an appropriate manner. When these clippings are dumped behind a fence, it detracts from the beauty of the Park and introduces invasive plants.
- Please remove all structural items that have been placed in the Park. The Park is not the place to store unwanted items that have “long been forgotten about” or are no longer of use to you.
- Please relocate your compost bin into your yard. Composting is a great way to be environmentally friendly but we ask that the bins are kept off Park land.
- Please do not plant trees or flower beds in the Park. By doing this you will be introducing non-native plants and weeds into the Park. Park staff will not be removing trees that have already become established but will remove newly planted materials.
- Please do not put up bird feeders or leave out food to feed wildlife. Feeding of wildlife in Alberta Provincial Parks is a violation under the Provincial Parks Act.
- If you have renovation plans and need to access your back yard via the Park, please ensure you contact us and request a permit. These permits are free.
- Please dispose of your litter in the garbage bins provided while visiting the Park.

The boundary has changed over the years and what you may believe to be City property could be actually part of Fish Creek Provincial Park. Park staff will be making their way around the boundary this year to clarify boundary locations.

Working Together

Fish Creek Provincial Park is one of North America's largest natural urban protected areas. Please consider how you share the boundary with this place in ways that allow it to prosper for future generations.

Get Involved

There are many opportunities to give something back to a land that provides so much. For more information contact the Friends of Fish Creek Provincial Park Society at 238-3841 or visit www.friendsoffishcreek.org
