

A Provincial Park's primary purpose is the conservation of nature while providing significant recreation opportunities. Provincial Parks provide opportunities for nature-based recreation, tourism and education, which are compatible with conservation objectives. Provincial Parks provide greater range of nature-based recreation opportunities, road access, facility development and educational programming.

The Wildland Provincial Park would protect large, ecologically healthy and functioning landscapes that would remain relatively undisturbed. The Wildland Provincial Park would provide opportunities for backcountry/wilderness travel and appreciation as well as nature-based touring, guiding and outfitting.